

MI Learning on iTunes U

Introduction

The state of Michigan is developing K-12 student, staff and community learning resources on iTunes U.

Audio and video resources that support Michigan curriculum standards, professional development and other Michigan community resources are available at the MI Learning on iTunes U site. The development of MI Learning is a collaborative project with MDE, MACUL, educators and other organizations who provide access to quality learning resources.

Visit MI Learning on iTunes U (Requires iTunes software.)

Become a MI Learning Contributor!

Any Michigan educator may create topics/subjects and post quality audio/video/PDF learning resources on the MI Learning site without cost. Access MI Learning information at:

www.macul.org/milearning

- Read the MI Learning Participation Information.
- Fill out the MI Learning Participation Online Form

New Stipend Opportunity is posted on www.macul.org/milearning!

We are looking for educators who have received training using specific software to capture quality teaching and create learning resources through screencasting, video, slides, etc. (It also works to team up and collaborate with tech support who has the know-how!)

With the past $2 million TechSmith grant for Michigan educators, many ISD/REMC/RESAs and school districts have Camtasia & SnagIt software and may be able to offer technical training on how to create quality learning resources. Or, work with your tech staff to determine what software is available to you. Also having a good microphone for recording is a priority!

Applicants will have a choice of participation levels:

- Receive $500 for creating 10 quality learning resources per topic/collection, or
 - Receive $1000 & MACUL Conference Registration for creating 20 resources per collection.
- Educators may collaborate with others to create resources in one topic/collection area and share the stipend.

Note: The funding will be distributed after resources are posted on MI Learning. Applications will be accepted through June 2012 with resources posted by September 30, 2012.

Again, any Michigan educator can share quality resources at any time - without applying for a stipend. Feel free to contact me with any questions!
